HOP BITTERS.

SEE SHOWED SIGNS OF DEATH. BITTERS.
"52, Storks-road, S.E. June 7, 1887. HOP BITTERS.
"To the Hop Bitters Company (Ld.) 41, Farringdon-road. HOP BITTERS.
"I have much pleasure in testifying to the exceeding great value of your Bitters. My grandmother, who is now 75 years old, was taken very ill with a severe cold, which settled in her back, affecting the kidneys. I had medical aid, but the medicine made her worse instead of better ; and the doctor who attended her said she would only last a few hours. I must admit that I believed what he said was true, and she evidently showed signs of death. But we gave her doses of Hop Bitters at stated times, which acted with good results. It is now two months since this happened, and I am thankful to say that she has recovered so much as to be able to go out, looks better than she did before she was taken ill. HOP BITTERS.
"You can make what use you like of this letter, as I feel convinced that had she not had the Bitters, I should be sorrowing over her loss.—Yours faithfully. HOP BITTERS.
(Signed) "R. K. HAMILTON." HOP BITTERS.
HOP BITTERS for the LIVER, KIDNEYS, and BLOOD are unsurpassed by any other form of medicine. It is no vile drugged nostrum, but we guarantee it to be pure and wholesome, and compounded from the finest hops, together with other medicinal leaves and tinctures, on scientific principles. Only try a bottle to-day ; or if you have a sick friend, or know some poor person in need of a nourishing tonic and wholesome medicine, go tell them, or give them a bottle of genuine Hop Bitters.—It may be the happiest act of your life. THE THEFT AT MESSRS. MARCKS AND COMPANY.—Benjamin Reuben, a Beni-Israelite, who was charged with the theft of a diamond ring, valued Rs. 400, the property of Messrs. Marcks and Co., from their shop, on the 19th ultimo, was on Saturday convicted by Mr. Crawley-Boevey of the offence, and sentenced to eighteen months' rigorous imprisonment.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Harripursad Balcrishna, aged about 37 years, a hawker of grain, was on Saturday evening last admitted into the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital suffering from the effects of opium alleged to have been voluntarily administered to himself, owing to his present embarrassed circumstances. He is at present lying under treatment at the above hospital.

A WARNING TO STUDENTS.—It is but a few months ago that we were asking schoolmasters to preach upon the case of a young man sentenced to a long term of rigorous imprisonment for fraudulently altering the number of marks entered in His Public Service Certificate. We now have to comment upon another case in which a young Brahmin of Poona has been convicted of fraudlently altering his ages given in the same document and sentenced to imprisonment. It seems incredible that boys could run such terrible risks if they realised what they were doing, and we trust that these two case may become widely known and have a wholesome deterrent effect in the future.

ATTEMPTED MURDER AND SUICIDE.—Dhunna, a sweeper woman, aged about 30 years, living in the compound of the Indo-British Institution in Hornby Road, was removed to the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, on Saturday morning, at 7 o'clock, suffering from the effects of a wound on her throat apparently severing the wind-pipe which was alleged to have been inflicted on her by her paramour, Ananta Khumasee, with a razor. After inflicting the wound on the woman the man cut his own throat. He also was conveyed to the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, where he is lying in a precarious condition. Mr. Ryan, the third Presidency Magistrate, attended the hospital, and took the woman's deposition.

THEFT FROM H. M.'s MINT.—Rama Balloo, a day-labourer employed in H. M.'s Mint, was on Saturday convicted by Mr. Crawley-Boevey of stealing five tolas weight of silver, valued Rs. 5, the property of Government. The accused, when leaving the Mint premises after work hours on Friday evening, was searched, and the piece of silver was found in his possession. He was handed over to the police, Mr. Anderson, Superintendent of the Melting Department of the Mint, urged the Magistrate to deal severely with the accused so as to deter others who are employed in the department from committing similar offences. The accused, on pleading guilty to the charge, was sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE ON INFANT MARRIAGE.—A largely attended meeting of the Bombay Missionary Conference was held, on Monday evening, at the house of the Rev. R. Scott, of the Free Church Mission. After the usual hour of open conversation the question of infant marriage—on which a communication had been received from the Rev. K. S. MacDonald, Calcutta—was introduced. Amongst those who addressed the meeting were Rev. Messrs. Hume, Lateward, Stone, M. D., Tisdale, Wann, Nikambe, and Mr. Morris. There was a general concurrence of opinion, that the subject should be taken up by the conference earnestly and cautiously; and that wise and guarded legislation should be urged upon Government.—Bombay Guardian.

DEATH OF A NATIVE MISSIONARY.—We regret very much to have to announce the death of Rev. Ramkrishna Vinayak Modak, of the American Marathi Mission. He died at Ahmednagar rather unexpectedly on Monday morning, though he has been long in feeble health. He was converted in 1842 while a teacher in the American Mission. He was ordained in 1854. The greater part of his ministerial life has been spent at Ahmednagar, although he spent a few years as pastor of the American Mission Bombay Church. He was a man of much intellectual vigour, and often defended the Christian cause with special ability. He will be very specially missed at Ahmednagar, where he has filled the office of patriarch in the rising church.—Bombay Guardian.

DROWNED IN A WATER-COURSE.—An inquest was held by the coroner on Saturday at the Nepean Sea Road, touching the death of Bapoo Tookaram, aged 13 years. Deceased was the son of a dhoby, named Tookaram Kundoo, living in that locality. He was seen at 7-30 that morning coming from his house, and walking in a water-course leading down past his house. There was not much water when he went into the channel, but it was raining heavy at the time. The water suddenly increased and the deceased was carried away in it. He was stopped by a rock, and the water in large volumes rushing over him he was soon powerless. A dhoby, named Rama, pulled the boy out. He was dead. The verdict was that the death of the deceased was caused by his having been accidentally drowned in a water-course.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN NEWMAN HARDEN, C.S.—We deeply regret to have to announce the death of Mr. John Newman Harden, C.S., which took place at Ahmedabad on Monday last, after a short illness which lasted only a few hours. The deceased gentleman was seized with cholera in the afternoon and his death occurred at 9 o'clock in the evening of the same day. Mr. Harden, whose talents gave promise of a brilliant career and whose amiable qualities made him many friends, had been less than a year in India. His entrance into the Civil Service dates only from the 17th of September 1886 and he landed in Bombay upon the 27th of the following November. Having been placed under the orders of the Collector of Ahmedabad, he immediately left for that city and was appointed to the post of Assistant Collector on the 16th of February 1887. The deceased was well known as a devout and practising Catholic.—Bombay Catholic Examiner.

MAHOMEDWADI MURDERS.—The police have arrested two ramusis of the village of Mahomedwadi as the murderers of the girl whose body was found under a prickly-pear hedge, with a gag in her mouth and without the ornaments on her person. They were placed before the First Class Magistrate of the Haveli Taluka, before whom they have made a full confession of their crime. The circumstances under which their victim was murdered are said to be these: Both accused, finding it impossible in their absurd opinion to obtain a decent means of living, planned the murder of the girl in order to obtain the ornaments with which they saw her adorned. In order to accomplish this, they enticed her away to the jungles on the pretence of bringing grass for sale and, when they had reached an out-of-the-way spot, one of them seized the child and threw her down. She must have resisted to the best of her strength and cried out for help, as a gag was found thrust into her mouth. The accused planted his knee on her chest and throttled her to death.—Deccan Herald.

THE LATE MR. H. FRANK SHANAHAN.—In our issue of the 15th of last April, says the Bombay Catholic Examiner, there appeared above the signature of the late lamented Mr. Thomas Duncan, who made himself the life and soul of the proposed undertaking, an appeal to the Bombay friends of the late Mr. Shanahan to subscribe towards the erection of a mural tablet to be placed in the Fort chapel in memory of the deceased gentleman. The appeal has been responded to, as we at the time felt convinced it would be, by Mr. Shanahan's numerous friends and schoolfellows in Bombay, and the result has been that a marble tablet of considerable artistic merit and bearing an appropriate inscription has been placed in the west wall of the Fort Chapel. For the information of Mr. Shanahan's numerous friends, who may not have an opportunity of inspecting for themselves the memorial which has been erected in his honour, we append the terms of the inscription which accurately describe the sentiments of love and esteem entertained by all who knew him and their regret at his untimely death. "Of your charity pray for the soul of H. Frank Shanahan. Born at Colchester, England, January 2nd, 1859. Died fortified by the rites of the Church at Ahmedabad, November 28th, 1886. This tablet has been erected by his friends and former school-fellows as a small tribute of affection for one whose virtues they admired, whose friendship they prised, and whose early death they sincerely deplore. R. I. P."

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT BYCULLA.—On Saturday morning, at about a quarter to 4 o'clock, a one-storied chawl, situated on the New Foras Road and owned by Soojoodeen Tyabjee, was discovered to be on fire. The upper story was occupied by two Eurasian families, and the ground-floor of the chawl, which is divided into several compartments, was utilised as native grocers' shops and native residences. The fire is supposed to have originated in a grocer's shop belonging to Jeewajee Moosajee, who occupied one of the centre compartments of the chawl. It appears that he had a quantity of kerosine oil in stock. This ignited, and the fire spread with great rapidity in a very short time, and the whole chawl was in one mass of flames. On the alarm being raised, the Byculla steam fire engine repaired to the scene in quick time; but the water-supply was very meagre indeed, and was only able to feed one jet fairly. The steam fire engines from Pydowne and the Fort soon followed and arrived at the scene of the disaster, but could only be used for a few minutes, owing to lack of water. By this time the upper portion of the chawl was completely destroyed, but the shops and residences on the ground-floor were saved. The greatest sufferers, amongst the occupants, were Messrs. Martin and Almeida who occupied the upper rooms. They had all their moveable property and almost every thing they possessed completely destroyed. The scanty supply of water unfortunately was in some measure compensated for by the heavy downpour of rain. The fire was brought under control by 6 o'clock. The damage is roughly estimated at about Rs. 6,350.

THE COLABA LAND AND MILL COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE eight ordinary general meeting of this company, was held on Saturday afternoon at the office of Mr. N. M. Wadia, Parsee Bazar Street, Fort, under the presidency of Mr. Sorabjee Shapoorjee Bengalee.

The following was the directors' report :—

The directors beg to submit their report of the administration of the company's affairs during the twelve months ended 30th June last, together with the audited statements of profit and loss account and the balance sheet as standing on that date. The profit and loss account, it will be observed, shows a gain of Rs. 1,96,359-14-8, made up of the following items:—Profit on account of the mill Rs. 1,13,102-4; profit on other properties, Rs. 1,09,783. Add—Balance brought forward from last account, Rs. 2,474-10-8; total, Rs. 2,25,359-14-8. Less—Provision for mill depreciation, Rs. 25,000; transferred to mill employes compensation fund account Rs. 1,000; transferred to provision for bad debts account, Rs. 3,000; total, Rs. 1,96,359-14-8. Out of the above sum of Rs. 1,96,359-14-8 the directors have already paid Rs. 70,000 for the ad-interim half yearly dividend to 31st December 1886, at Rs. 17½ per share leaving a balance of Rs. 1,26,359-14-8 to be disposed of. The directors recommend that out of the above amount Rs. 1,20,000 be distributed to the Shareholders at the rate of Rs. 30 per share and the balance of Rs. 6,359-14-8 be carried forward to the credit of the profit and loss account of the current year. This will make the total distribution of dividend for the year under report at Rs. 47½ per share. The mill earnings during the past year the directors regard as satisfactory. There was a stoppage of more than nine days in September last on account of the break-down of the bottom bevel wheel which had to be replaced by a new one. The directors have in full working order the four ring throstle frames referred to in the last annual report; and they have since added 2 flat revolving card engines and have besides ordered out one more preparation and 4 ring throstle frames to spin low counts which machinery is expected to arrive shortly. Having regard to the increasing value of land in Bombay, the directors have arranged with the Port Trustees to raise the rent of the Cotton Green ground, from next season, from Re. 1 to Re. 1½ per square yard. Bai Dayacore, widow of the late Morarbhoy Vishbhocundass, applied to the directors to purchase from them the Company's right, title, and interest in the 5,612 square yards of ground at Colaba on which part the Nicol Manufacturing Company's mill stands and which was originally leased to the late Hydraulic Press company. The directors have sold their title to the land for Rs. 2,77,300, being the capitalised amount at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum of the annual rent of Rs. 11,785, which the company had hitherto received. The amount received by sale of the land as above mentioned, with such addition from the other funds of the company as may be desirable, the directors propose to invest in the extention of the company's cotton mill or in erecting a new spinning mill, with the newest approved machinery, in close proximity to the present building. Plans and specifications are now being prepared and the matter will receive the careful consideration of the board before any one of these two suggestions is adopted. In the meantime, a resolution will be submitted at the annual general meeting, with the view of obtaining an expression of the opinion of the shareholders regarding the course which the directors propose to take in this matter. The directors retiring by rotation in conformity with clause 91 of the articles of association are Messrs. George Cotton and Sorabjee Framjee Pateli both of whom are eligible for re-election. Mr. Cotton has left for Europe for 5 months with the consent of the board. In the absence of Mr. James Douglas from Bombay the directors have appointed Mr. John A. Douglas to act as an auditor of the company under the authority of clause 126 of the articles of association. The other auditor Mr. Jehangeer Gustadji appointed at the last general meeting of the shareholders having died. The directors have appointed Mr. Nusserwanji Sorabji Jamsetjee in his place under the same authority.

The directors report was adopted. The meeting approved the intention of the directors as stated in the report to extend the present cotton mill or to construct a new one adjoining to it. The cost to be paid out of the available funds in the hands of the directors A dividend at the rate of Rs. 30 per share was sanctioned. Messrs. George Cotton and Sorabji Framjee Patel were re-elected directors and Messrs. James Douglas and Nusserwanji Sorabji Jamsetji re-appointed auditors at a remuneration of Rs. 150

The usual vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.

CRICKET IN ENGLAND.

By far the most interesting match of the week ending the 19th ult., was that in which Surrey met Derbyshire, when the partisans of the former were occasioned a great deal of surprise. Derbyshire this season had not yet won a county match, and in their first engagement with Surrey earlier in the year were decisively beaten, the latter county scoring 491 in their first innings. Roller, Jones and Beaumont were absent from the home team, their places being filled by Henderson, E. Mills, and Adams. So exciting a neck-and-neck race for the century as that between Abel and Henderson in the Surrey and Derbyshire match, at the Oval, has seldom been witnessed. Under the leaden sky and the gloomy atmosphere it required more than ordinary cricket to raise even a semblance of enthusiasm in a game which, had it not been for the recent falling off in the play of the Southern county, would have been a foregone conclusion. When Abel went to the wickets shortly before lunch it was soon evident that he had recovered some of the form he exhibited at the beginning of the season. And when, shortly afterwards, Henderson joined him, it was speedily apparent that neither Cropper nor Walker had easy work before them. Henderson's batting yesterday surprised his best friends. Always a careful, if frequently an unfortunate bat, he hit with remarkable judgment and success on a wicket that troubled alike bowlers and batsmen. On more than half a dozen occasions he received attentions from the ball which would have placed a less courageous player hors de combat. Abel and he make capital partners. At the commencement of their association the former was fifteen to the good, but by seizing every opportunity Henderson was soon level, and at half-past four the two had completed their fifties. Thence the race was particularly close, each occasionally forging ahead. The excitement of the crowd grew apace. Henderson presently gave a chance, which was missed by somewhat loose fielding. At twenty minutes past five o'clock, the score was 80 all, each thus being within a score of the much-coveted century. The cheering at this point was prolonged, and much speculation as to the result of the next few minutes' play ensued. As it happened neither was successful, Abel's wicket falling for 84, and Henderson's, immediately afterwards, for 98—his best score for the county. The dismissal of Abel somewhat damped the ardour of the partisans of Surrey; but the majority of the crowd were confident that Henderson, who was batting carefully and well, would attain the distinction attaching to the score of 100. When the telegraph board announced that he was within a couple of the much desired number his particular supporters were jubilant. But to the regret of all admirers of good Cricket Henderson at this point appeared to bat somewhat nervously and suddenly succumbed. He was received with much cheering, a great portion of which testified to the regret that he should have so narrowly missed his century rather than pleasure that Derbyshire had got rid of a dangerous opponent. Having defeated every county once, and with a score of ten out of twelve matches of the first order to its credit, any other team than the Surrey might rest content on its laurels. The County is notoriously a fine wicket team, and the representatives selected for the Lancashire match were in no way equal to the average. Mr. Shuter has asserted that the alleged falling-off in the play of his men is no falling-off at all, and that in addition to peculiar ill-luck, Surrey has been expected to achieve that which no great cricket team ever yet attained—an unbroken series of victories. He says that in requiring of the team to maintain the remarkable excellence it exhibited during the first months of the season the critics lost sight altogether of the glorious uncertainties of the game. In this Mr. Shutter is supported by prominent members of the eleven, who believe that on a good wicket the Southern men are invincible; and who attribute Surrey's two defeats solely to the mishaps to its men, to the rough wickets, and also to Abel's unfortunate failure when playing against Lancashire. Surrey perhaps play a little too eagerly to win, preferring to risk defeat rather than except an undecided or drawn game. Yesterday the home cricketers certainly exhibited no special falling-off. Mr. Read did not shine very brilliantly, perhaps, and the last three batsmen were decidely weak. It must not be forgotten, however, that in Cropper and Walker Derbyshire has a brace of excellent bowlers. The kangaroo-like leap of the former is apt to arouse merriment, but his delivery is much more effective than might appear to the casual critic. Davidson, too, has lost none of his cunning, though he failed to achieve great things. And if Derbyshire has not hitherto played as well as it might, in this latest contest it has shown signs of improvement. In defeating the Derbyshire men, therefore, Surrey won no petty victory. At the same time Derbyshire is considered to have finished her season so far as first-class cricket is concerned. Year after year has found the Midland county at the bottom of the list and can hardly be entitled in future to rank as a first-class county.

There is a great deal of talk nowadays about the superiority of the bat over the ball and frequent proposals are made to widen or heighten the wickets. No doubt on dry hard perfect wickets such as have been the rule during this most exceptional season the bat has a great advantage, especially when the fielding has been loose and catches have been dropped. Even under these circumstances, however, really good bowling combined with smart fielding enabled the Players to score two decisive victories over strong batting teams of Gentlemen whom they succeeded in dismissing for small totals. But when after rain the wickets are slow and uncertain then the ball asserts its superiority and only small totals are made. Thus after the thunderstorm of Wednesday, Notts on Thursday morning were all out for 92 while Yorkshire could only make 123 against Surrey. Probably professional bowling is better now both in quantity and quality than ever before. Modern cricket-grounds are like billiard-tables, and when they are hard and dry a bad bowler is useless against first-class batsmen. On certain wickets any bowler will be almost innocuous. Even Lohmann cannot always meet with success. But when Barlow can take eight Notts wickets for 26 runs bowlers need not wholly despair. The analyses subjoined to the scores of the various matches below will prove in bowling as well as batting that excellent play has been made.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE VS. LANCASHIRE.

It will be remembered that Lancashire contributed 252 in their first innings, and Gloucestershire had to follow on, but did so well at the second attempt that when stumps were drawn they were 93 runs to the good, and had two wickets to fall. On resuming however, 25 minutes' play sufficed to bring the innings to a close for 219, or an addition of 6 only. Lancashire were thus set to obtain 100 runs to win, a task they commenced at 3·45, and completed at 5·20, Lancashire having six wickets to fall. Score :

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, SEPT. 10.

Consols in London yesterday were unaltered at 101¼, as also were French Rentes in Paris at 103, but Indian Securities were lower, the Sterling 3½ per cent. Loan by ¼ to 100¾ and Rupee Paper by ⅛ in 4 and ¼ in 4½ per cents. These latter movements are attributable of course to the decline in Exchange which singularly enough however appears to have left Bar Silver unaffected at 44⅛ per oz.

In the Produce markets the changes wired are few and unimportant. An advance of 1s. per quarter is reported in Poppy Seed and a partial decline of 3d. in Linseed. Wheat in Liverpool remains unchanged, but No. 2 Club in London comes 6d. per quarter lower.

Cotton in Liverpool yesterday closed steady with sales of 10,000, bales including 1,000 Surats. Spot prices were unchanged, but Americans to arrive were 1-64d. lower in the early position. To-day's report comes still steady, sales only 8,000 bales including 500 Surats Spot prices unmoved, but arrivals 1-14d. dearer in all positions. In New York no change has taken place either yesterday or to-day, and we may take it that the Washington Agricultural Bureau's report just to hand had not transpired either in Liverpool or New York before the closing of to-day's market. We were able to report four days ago that private advices indicated the probability of a less favorable return than previously, but we scarcely think quite so important a falling off in the condition was anticipated. The synopsis of the report wired by Reuter says that "the condition of the crop in 10 Cotton States is 82 13-16 per cent., having been seriously damaged by heavy rains in the Atlantic States and by drought in the Gulf States. Bollworm and terpillars have also caused serious damage to the crop." For the sake of comparison we give the following record of the monthly estimates of condition against the five previous seasons:—

June	96 9-10	93·7	92	87	86	89
July	97	86·1	96	86	90	92
August	93·3	81	96·5	87	84	94
September	82 12-16	82	87	82·5	74	92

"We may look for crop estimates now being reduced to 6½ to 6¾ millions, and on the report just received taken by itself the former figure would certainly be well justified, but it must not be forgotten that the crop is an early one, as the receipts up to date very clearly show, and the earlier the yield the less is it exposed to weather vicissitudes in October, which have a great deal to say to the ultimate outturn.

We subjoin our usual weekly comparison of the Liverpool statistics, which do not however present any noteworthy features. The Liverpool stock has decreased by 45,000 bales and is now only 55,000 bales above the same date last year. The total visible supply on the other hand is only 30,000 bales less on the week and is now 102,000 bales more than twelve months ago, the free receipts at the American ports so early in the season preventing the same rate of diminution as last year. This ultimately will also tend to prevent the Liverpool stock running down to the very low ebb in November which otherwise seem probable, and under the influence of which, now that the new crop advices are less favorable we, might have seen exceptionally high prices.

The American Crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous years:—

	1887	1886	1885
Week's receipts	85,000	43,000	53,000
" exports to U. K.	16,000	8,000	9,000
" " Continent	1,000	4,000	7,000
Total receipts since 1st Sept.	100,000	55,000	76,000
" exports to U. K.	30,000	17,000	10,000
" " Cont.	5,000	5,000	9,000
" Stock in the Ports	127,000	183,000	152,000
Saturday's Receipts	17,000	10,000	11,000

The total visible supply of Cotton for all Europe on the 9th instant affords the following comparisons with the two previous years:—

	1887	1886	1885
Total supply of all kinds	1,180,000	1,077,890	1,119,150
" " Surats	466,000	319,570	227,190

For the United Kingdom only the figures are:—

Our local market has been devoid of change to-day. The dealers have been making their speculative prices for new crops dearer on the strength of the weather, but really there has been very little passing, the only purchases we have heard of for the Mills being 300 bales Julgaum at Rs. 175½, 100 bales Veerumgaum at Rs. 190 to Rs. 194, and 100 bales Antni at Rs. 152 per candy.

In Wheat we have not heard of any business. The heavy rain has prevented any ready buying, and for future delivery the position remains unaltered.

The receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	658	bales.
Wheat	4,459	cwt.
Linseed	2,999	"
Rapeseed	176	"
Gingelly Seed	1,654	"

Freights.—We have not heard of any engagements and rates remain nominally unaltered.

Piece-Goods.—We are in receipt to-day through Reuter of the statement of Cotton Goods and Yarns shipped from the U. K. to Bombay, Calcutta and Madras during the month of August. We append a comparison of the figures with the previous month and the corresponding month of last year, and we fancy the extent of shipments to this port will take some people by surprise in the face of the depression which the trade has been suffering under so long. Not only is there a large increase over the July totals, but the quantities of Plain Cotton and Twist are largely ahead of August 1886, when business was exceptionally active. For Calcutta and Madras a considerable decrease is apparent, except under the one item of Twist for the latter port:—

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1887.

Recent telegrams from Paris have prepared us for the announcement almost at any time that England and France have agreed upon the bases of an arrangement for the neutralization of the Suez Canal. Such an arrangement, we take it, would be preliminary to the opening of negotiations with the other Powers, and could scarcely be regarded as definitive until it had met with European acceptance. But it is not the fashion of Governments to negotiate "in the air," and both in London and in Paris there must be at least a general idea as to the principles upon which the remaining Powers would concur for the settlement of the question. For it need scarcely be said that the negotiations between Lord Salisbury and M. Flourens deal with no new problem. They are indirectly consequential upon a principle to which the British Government gave its adhesion when more than twelve years ago Lord Derby, then Foreign Minister in Lord Beaconsfield's Government, expressed his dissatisfaction with the absence of any international guarantee for the efficacious control of what was essentially an international highway, whose free use was a matter of international interest. Lord Derby declared, both in speech and in writing, his belief that the arrangement most satisfactory to Great Britain would be that the Canal, forming so important a link in our communications with India and Australia, should be under the management of an international Commission, so that its control should not rest exclusively with any single Government or body of individuals. There is now no question of the kind of international control mentioned by Lord Derby, and which we suppose finds its nearest exmplification in the operations of the International Commission for the regulation of the lower waters of the Danube. The idea of international control has been modified into that of an international guarantee, and that principle was formally adopted in the preliminary convention negotiated by Sir Henry Wolff at Constantinople in the autumn of 1885. The agreement was between the British Government and the Sultan alone, and it was an agreement in principle alone, needing hereafter to be reduced to practical form in a detailed convention and to be submitted for acceptance to the remainder of the Powers interested. But a good deal had been done even in accomplishing this preliminary stage, and the article in the Convention of 1885, establishing international interests in a work over which the Sultan had definite territorial rights, goes far to remove the reproach of barrenness from a mission which as a whole was signally unsuccessful. It was a great thing to get the assent of the Porte to the principle; perhaps it was a greater to go so far in advance of public opinion at home as to register an act which precludes us from at any time exercising an exclusive control over the Canal. An exaggerated view of its strategic value had led to strangely Chauvinistic notions as to the rights, or at all events the expediencies, which should guide us in dealing with the Canal in the time of an emergency, and English public opinion was slow to accommodate itself to the much more restricted view of British rights and interests which Lord Salisbury's Government had taken on this occasion. However, when Sir Henry Wolff went to Cairo, to discuss with Moukhtar Pasha various questions connected with administrative and military reorganization in Egypt, and the evacuation of the country by the British troops, the two Governments had recorded their agreement on the principle of neutralizing the Canal, and the third article of the convention which the Sultan signed the other day, but would not ratify, defined the conditions of a subsequent convention to which the Porte was to invite the signatories to the Treaty of Berlin to "agree for better securing the freedom of navigation through the Suez Canal."

Apparently Lord Salisbury, disappointed with the method of beginning with the Porte and ending with the Powers, hopes for better results from the contrary method of beginning with the Powers and ending with the Porte. The most difficult part of the problem has to be solved, after all, in Paris and not in Constantinople, where, moreover, the difficulties that were raised two months ago had relation not to the clauses of the convention which provide for the future navigation of the Canal, but to those for the British evacuation and rights of re-entry in Egypt. It is reasonable to expect, therefore, that an agreement respecting the Canal which bore the signatures of the other Powers would not wait long for acceptance by the Porte. It remains to be seen how far the bases of the agreement under negotiation between Lord Salisbury and M. Flourens differ from those embodied in the abortive Anglo-Turkish Convention of the present year. So far as is known the French Government took no exception to them. They provided that the Canal should be always free and open, whether in peace or war, for ships of war and merchant vessels passing from one sea to the other, the Great Powers undertaking never to inpede the free passage of the Canal in time of war. The French proposals seem to go somewhat further than this, inasmuch as they provide for the marking off of a neutral zone within which the massing of troops or the erection of fortifications shall be forbidden. The provision, as thus stated, seems unobjectionable, and to be little more than an additional guarantee that the neutrality of the canal shall be real and effective. We could only object to it if we had an arrière pensée in the direction of some day making a military use of the Canal, and that would be inconsistent with every effort that we have made to have its neutrality declared, and with our own declarations on the subject. Sir Henry Wolff, in his despatch to Lord Salisbury summing up the results of his mission on the occasion of the signature of the convention by the Sultan last May, by plain implication disavowed any such contingency. It had been suggested, he remarked, that the Canal, in time of war, might be destroyed or blocked by the British fleet. "But the idea that one belligerent could, for his own purposes, destroy a work by which all the world benefits can scarcely commend itself to the genius of modern warfare." England could give no more convincing guarantee of the sincerity of her desire that the neutrality of the Canal shall be real than by consenting to a proposal which in effect means nothing more nor less than it shall not be made a military work. We had to choose between the alternatives of securing ourselves by a forcible possession of the Canal like that of 1882—an act which could not well be repeated without bringing ourselves in conflict with something more formidable perhaps than European opinion—and that of making sure of a free passage through the Canal by the guarantee of Europe. The method which Lord Salisbury's Government deliberately preferred two years ago makes more of the commercial advantages of the Canal than of the strategic. But on the whole the guarantee of a free passage through the Canal in times of peace and of war is of more value to us than a doubtful guarantee of free passage in peace and liberty to do what we like with the Canal—which only means after all the right to do what we can with it—in time of war, this same liberty being, as Sir Henry Wolff very properly puts it, circumscribed by certain moral limitations prescribed by the genius of modern warfare.

Those who think that in agreeing to the neutralization of the Canal under the guarantee of the Powers we are parting to our detriment with our liberty of action should bear in mind how the case stands now. The Canal, in the absence of any conventional regulation, falls under the jurisdiction in the first instance of the local authority, and in the last resort of the Sultan as Suzerain. Arm of the sea though it be, since it connects two seas themselves open and incapable of appropriation by any Power, it is not itself what jurists would call mare liberum, and it can only by convention derive that character. Until it has in that way gained the character which is essential to it if it is to serve its high purpose as a highway of the nations, it is subject to all the risks which attach to any part of an Empire so constantly open to attack as the dominions of the Sultan. If Russia were to-morrow, on the ground of some misunderstanding with the Porte—say concerning Bulgaria, or concerning the still unpaid war indemnity—to blockade the Canal she would be as much within her right as England was in blockading Dulcigno in 1880, or as the same power would be to-day in blockading a Venezuelan port in consequence of our present misunderstandings with that incorrigible Republic. Sir Travers Twiss, looking at the matter exclusively from the point of view of the international lawyer, once pointed out that the trade of the world might be hindered by the blockade of the Canal ports on the part of any one state waging war against Turkey, and as no provision has been made against such an event by a common understanding, no state, however aggrieved, would have the right of remonstrance against the exercise of belligerent rights. These rights undoubtedly exist, and they will continue to exist until they have been abrogated by convention. A little excess of jealousy of other Powers, a little excess of zeal in conserving and enlarging upon the physical advantages which our occupation of Egypt gives us, may do us harm in perpetuating the inconvenience and risks which attend upon the present state of things, which from the point of view of national interest as well as of international law are as unsatisfactory as they could well be.

The report that during the absence of the Chief Justice only two courts will sit on the Original Side of the Bombay High Court is provoking some comment—not in all cases approving comment—in professional circles. Early in November Mr. Justice Scott will return from leave; and it is understood that Mr. Farran, as originally arranged, will then cease to act. But when this arrangement was made the absence of the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Bayley's consequent removal from the Original Side were not in contemplation, and it is asked whether, the circumstances having changed, the arrangement should not be changed with them so far as to defer Mr. Justice Farran's return to the bar at least until Sir Charles Serjeant has come back from his leave and the status quo ante has been restored. It is not contended that in the present state of the cause list any special effort is required to keep pace with the work that is brought into Court. The heavy arrears of a year or so since have been disposed of, and the only ground for misgiving is lest, with inadequate provision for the work of the Court, the old unsatisfactory state of things should be revived. A good deal can be done in three months, even in the way of accumulating arrears, and it is feared that if the Original Side is provided with only two judges after the October vacation the Chief Justice may find on his return from his holiday that the cause list looks no better than it did last year. The Original Side, as it would be constituted if the plan understood to be in contemplation were carried out, would not be wanting in strength; but its strength would lie elsewhere than in promptitude of procedure, and suitors might once again have to complain, as they were complaining not so long ago, of the law's delays. Under the present arrangements work is brought on as soon as—having regard to our present procedure—it can be got ready. For instance the Judges are now trying suits for the most part little more than three months old. With two Courts sitting only nine days a week—without reckoning holidays and vacations—would be devoted to the hearing of suits, for each judge would have his Saturday, and one would have to sit in insolvency. Then at least a day and a half would be required for Chamber work and short causes, and another day for one of the judges to sit with the Chief Justice in appeal. This, as a matter of arithmetic, brings down the working time of the two Courts for their proper function of hearing suits to a little over six days—the equivalent of a full week's work for one judge. Now if that one judge were prompt and certain, well up in authorities and procedure, and able to deal on equal terms with the bar, the arrangement might suffice, for on the average about one long cause a day is filed which comes to a hearing. And it is this cons

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

LONDON, SEPT. 10.

The Indian Budget Statement has been presented to the House of Commons.

The prospect of 1887-88 is worse by £610,000 sterling than when the estimates were framed in India, owing to the greatly increased charges on account of the operations in Upper Burma and the small amount realized from land, the revenue of which yielded only one half of the amount estimated.

It was hoped however that the growth of the Indian Revenue would cover the estimated deficit

Sir John Gorst, in his speech, strongly eulogised the justice, equity, and beneficence of the Indian Government in their dealings towards the people of India.

Mr. Bradlaugh followed with some reflections on the grievances of the natives of India especially in the matter of promotions in the Civil Service.

Sir John Gorst replying, said that Government must await the Report of the Public Service Commission before entering upon any reforms or admitting more natives to the Civil Service.

A RENEWED attempt has been made in St. Petersburg to encourage the idea that England and Russia have agreed on a definite course of action to be pursued in the event of the Amir Abdur Rahman's failing to maintain his position. Thus the Vienna Political Correspondence learns from the Russian capital that, should the Amir's rule collapse, the two countries interested in Afghanistan will unite in an amicable partition of that country of stones and men; and this, it is added, is the real meaning of the concentration of troops on the Indian frontier.

THE Madras Government have directed that, as an experimental measure, all tanks and channels coming under the category of "Minor Irrigation Works," which have already been investigated and put into thorough order be handed over to the ryots for their maintenance in the future, the Collector of the district concerned supervising the proper and efficient upkeep of the tanks and channels so handed over. The experiment has been suggested by the Chief Engineer for Irrigation as a means by which the State will be relieved from further cost of the maintenance of minor irrigation works, and is to be for the present, initiated in the Periakolam minor basin of the Madura district. It is one of the outcomes of the change in the constitution of the Tank Department, Madras P. W. D, the designation of which was recently changed from the "Tank Maintenance Scheme Branch" to the "Tank Restoration Scheme Branch."

THE ENGLISH IN BANGKOK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In your issue of September 2nd, I notice an extract from a letter from Bangkok entitled "The English in Siam," which gives a very one-sided view of recent affairs in that capital. As a casual and impartial traveller who happened to be in Bangkok at the time perhaps you will allow me to say a few words on the other side of the question. Bangkok, like many independent Eastern capitals before it, has in its first struggles towards civilization accumulated a crowd of European adventurers who draw Siamese pay, hold high appointments, and rejoice in high-sounding titles bestowed on them by the King of Siam.

For these men's protection (as well as for the protection of English merchants) a Consular Court has had to be established; for though they draw the king's pay, command the king's troops and men-of-war, yet they do not care to submit to the king's justice. The casual observer would naturally think that being thus fostered and protected by the Consular Court, without whose protecting care service under the king would be impossible, these European adventurers would look up to and respect that court. On the contrary they band together, and under some petty pretext or other constantly harass and worry the Consular authorities, not only officially, but privately, in the grossest and most unmannerly way.

The pretext at the time I was in Bangkok was the "Registration fee" mentioned by your correspondent, the simple story of which was that the Foreign Office first ordered the fee to be levied, then counter ordered it, and thirdly ordered all action to be stopped in the matter till certain legal points had been settled.

As, of course, any unprejudiced person can see the Consul at Bangkok is merely the mouthpiece of the Foreign Office; yet the British subjects, egged on by one or two unruly and fractious spirits, raised public feeling against the Consular authorities, as if they personally were responsible for a measure, which by the way no one ever thought the least oppressive, until they were informed it was so by some pettifogging lawyer.

Your correspondent fails to mention that "the few exceptions" not invited to the Birthday Ball by her Majesty's Consul were at the time in open rebellion against her Majesty's Consular Court, and openly defying its authority.

In the same way one can hardly expect an officer in the Queen's service, holding the high position of Minister and Consul-General, to dine convivially at an hotel in company with the abovementioned "few exceptions" on an official occasion. Of course, it is at once apparent that one of "the few exceptions" is your correspondent. As for the "spontaneous loyalty" of an individual who says "The Queen, God bless her" with his lips and in heart and deed is at the same time rebelling against the authority of her Majesty's representative, perhaps the less said the better. I hope you will excuse this somewhat long-winded letter, but I trust in justice to Mr. E. B. Gould, you will publish the drift of it in answer to your Bangkok correspondent's letter. When one sees a high-minded, intellectual and courteous gentleman badgered and worried publicly and privately by a mixed pack of social pariahs, it is difficult not to be long-winded with virtuous indignation. The old fable of the Lion and the Jackals is being enacted at Bangkok.—Yours, &c.,

G. J. YOUNGHUSBAND, Lieut.,

THE PROPOSED DOG-TAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I am very glad to learn that the Government of Bombay contemplate the introduction of a Dog-tax in this presidency, and that they have with that object in view addressed the several Municipalities on the subject. This is a move in the right direction, and will greatly benefit the community at large by reducing the number of rabid and other stray dogs that are at present to be met with in every street—poor half-starved mangy curs that endanger the safety of the neighbourhood, and whose destruction would be an act of real pity both towards the wretched animals themselves and towards the poor people who every now and then become the victims of their phobia. Let us hope that the Municipalities will accord a ready response to the proposal of Government.

I would draw the attention of our excellent Police Commissioner to the necessity of some such regulation as that which was recently introduced in London for muzzling all dogs that are allowed to stray in the streets. It would be very advisable to require all owners of dogs to securely muzzle them when they are taken out of doors, unless they are led by a chain or string. We sometimes hear of the most unsuspicious looking dogs developing sudden symptoms of hydrophobia, and it is but fair and proper to protect the public from the risk they run from their neighbour's.

CANINE PETS.

POISONOUS AND HARMLESS SNAKES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In the account of the Bombay Natural History Society's Meeting which appeared in Saturday's paper, the latter half of the Reverend F. Dreckman's rule for distinguishing poisonous from harmless snakes appears to have been accidently omitted. The rule he proposed was the following:—(applicable to the Vipers, Tree Vipers, Bungaras and the snakes which resemble them.)

1. Head broad, triangular and very distinct from neck. (a) Those with head covered with large shields or plates are harmless. (b) Those having the head covered with small scales are poisonous.

2. Head scarcely distinct from neck. (a) Head covered with large shields and subcaudals (shields beneath the tail) single, poisonous. (b) Either head covered with scales and subcaudals single, harmless—I am, &c.

H. M. PHIPSON,
Honorary Secretary, Bombay, Natural History Society.

DACOITY in Lower Burma is not even yet extinct. A telegram from Rangoon reports that Mr. H. P. Todd Naylor, Assistant Commissioner, on special duty in the Shwaygyen district, had a brush with a dacoit gang on Tuesday last in which he shot dead a man called Sayagalay who has made himself a great notoriety in the neighbourhood. Mr. Todd Naylor narrowly escaped three shots which were fired at close quarters at himself. It is expected the disturbances in this locality will now cease.

THE Bombay Educational Record is glad to learn, on the authority of The Mahratta, that the now notorious passage about women in the Sixth Book of the new English School Series is to be expunged. "This" says the Record "is unquestionably the right thing to do, and we trust that the same treatment will be extended to two or three grossly indecent extracts which by some deplorable oversight have gained admission to the same book. The Roman poet's motto, maxima debetur pueris reverentia might be commended to the consideration of the compiler of this unfortunate volume."

PANDITA RAMABAI appears to be traversing the United States of America and lecturing on behalf of a scheme for the establishment of secular schools for the women of India. An institution has been organized called "The Ramabai Circle for the Elevation of Women in India" and a larger number of smaller circles are to be started throughout America in affiliation with the parent circle. The American Press remark upon the deep impression the eloquence of this remarkable woman produces wherever she goes. In one address before the Christian Association of Ithaca, the Pandita is reported to have "sketched vividly the condition of her sex in India, and pointed out especially how the early religious marriage of children deprives the women of her country utterly of all freedom of thought and action."

COMMENTING on the fact that the Boden Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford is about to be assisted by a Deputy Professor whose stipend will be not less than £333 per annum, the Educational Record says;—"A young Indian Sanskritist might do worse than go to Oxford for five or six years, and Oxford might do worse than engage a Deputy Professor from India."

THE number of emigrants who left the port of Calcutta in the month of July last was 1,620, of whom 490 went to Trinidad and 1,130 to Demerara.

THE continuation of the Bilaspur-Etawah railway from Umaria is to be proceeded with immediately. The contractors have received an intimation that the line must be carried to Bilaspur by 1889.

TELEGRAPHIC WEATHER REPORT.

SIMLA, Sept. 8th.—The barometer has fallen over the whole of India except the extreme South, but the changes are nowhere large. The slight depression in the Bay has disappeared, and pressure is now remarkably uniform over Northern and Central India and the Northern half of the Bay. The winds are light everywhere, and are very variable in direction in Upper India, where the air motion is almost nil. The mean temperature yesterday was two degrees higher in Northern India than on the previous day, and the air from five to ten per cent. drier. Showers fell in Burma on the West Coast districts and Southern India. Four stations only reported amounts slightly exceeding one inch.

SIMLA, September 9th. The barometer has fallen over the whole of India; slightly in the south, and briskly in Northern India. The fall varies from a tenth to a seventh of an inch in South Bengal, Aracan the Western districts of N. W. P. and the Indus valley. The winds are again increasing on the Bombay coast and rain has fallen in the largest amounts in coast districts. Ratnagari reports seven inches Karwar; three Goa, Poona two, and Sholapur one, light showers were also received in the Deccan and Central Provinces. The skies cleared yesterday over greater part N. W. P. The winds are very feeble at the head of the Bay and there is a tendency to the formation of a depression in the north-east of the Bay and south-east Bengal There was no rain fall yesterday in Bengal the N. W. P. the Punjab and Central India except a third of an inch at Peshawar and half an inch at Chittagong.

SEPTEMBER 10th.—The barometer has again fallen over the whole of India. The fall is large over the whole of Northern and Central India generally exceeding a tenth of an inch. It is largest at the head of the Bay and South Bengal, where it is nearly a sixth of an inch A depression and cyclonic whirl appears to be forming at the head of the Bay, but the air motion accompanying it, judging from Diamond Island Wind Returns is as yet feeble. Light showers have fallen in Burmah and the Coast districts of Bengal and Orissa. The most important feature of yesterday's weather is a very rapid increase of the winds on the West Coast from Karwar to Kurrachee. A strong monsoon is again blowing on the West Coast, which is giving heavy rain to the Coast districts. Bombay reports 10 inches; Rutnagiri, 4; Surat, 1. The rainfall is also extending into the interior, and the Deccan district and Central Provinces, received. Light to moderate rain yesterday. Malegaon, Amraoti, Satara and Dhulia each report 1 inch.

BOMBAY VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY.

A GENERAL meeting of the members of the Corps was held at the Volunteer Club, on Saturday evening, for the purpose of electing officers of the Battery. Major Roughton, Commandant, presided, and there was a very large attendance of members. Gunner Robertson proposed, and Gunner J. W. Smith seconded, a resolution that the election should be deferred for the present, mainly on the ground that the members of the Corps had not had sufficient time to become acquainted with each other; to which Gunner Hodges proposed, and Gunner Beckerley seconded, an amendment to the effect that the election should be proceeded with at once. The resolution, on being put to the meeting, was only supported by its proposer and seconder and declared lost, and the election proceeded. Four gentlemen were candidates for the Captaincy and six for Lieutenancies. Gunners H. W. Barrow and J. Leask were selected as scrutineers, and at once proceeded, with the chairman, to examine the voting papers. The election took place by ballot upon the French principle, that no candidate could be successful unless he secured an absolute majority of the members voting. After the lapse of half an hour Major Roughton declared that, although the voting had been close, and three ballots were found necessary in each instance, Gunner A. Leslie, of Sir C. Forbes and Company, had been elected Captain, the next in order of voting being Gunner T. S. Weir, Health Officer to the Municipality; whilst Gunners E. Mitchell, Assistant Editor of the Times of India, and H. O'Connor, Assistant Engineer to the Gas Company, were elected first and second Lieutenants, respectively, proxime accessit, Gunner Kenneth Masaulay. Mr. Leslie, we believe, has, in connection with the Calcutta Naval Artillery Volunteers, already passed the examination prescribed by the Volunteer Regulations for Captains in Artillery Volunteers, and holds the necessary certificate; and the Corps is to be congratulated on the selection of so eligible a candidate. After a vote of thanks to the scrutineers, the meeting broke up with cheers for the new officers and Major Roughton.

HEAVY RAINS IN BOMBAY.

FOR pretty nearly three days, commencing on Friday last, there was an almost incessant downpour of rain in Bombay. The storm followed brilliant flashes of lightning and terrific peals of thunder. The Maidan was speedily submerged and the Oval several inches under water. The condition of the roads between the Wodehouse Bridge and the Y. M. C. A. Rooms may be readily imagined when it is said that there was sufficient water on them to float a bunder-boat. The water covered the vacant ground south of the Cooperage, and overflowing the road, where it was nearly two feet deep, converted the land adjoining the Tramway stables into a vast pond, in which the buffaloes disported themselves. At Malabar Hill the surface of roads was washed away, and at Camballa much damage was done to garden produce, several of the compounds being entirely washed out. Here and there at the corners of the road the surface had become banked up, and between 8 and 9 o'clock the water-courses down Malabar Hill appeared as though fed by some mountain torrent. Great cascades fell from the high ground into the road beneath, and one of these came with a clean fall of six feet on to the roadway. Parts of the Nepean Sea Road were two feet deep in water. Parel Road was at least a foot under water, while from Camballa Hill the torrents were particularly strong. The road at the bottom of Walkeshwar Road at the Chinchpooghly end of Malabar Hill, on which the landslip occurred at the burst of the monsoon, subsided still further, and is now at least three or four feet lower than it was. At Byculla the rainfall was equally heavy and the Flats were entirely covered. In the Fort, between Meadow Street and Messrs. Treacher's establishment, the road was next to impassable, the tram lines in the centre of the road being covered, while at the sides the water was level with and in some places above the footpaths. Various other parts of the town were flooded, especially in the neighbourhood of the Null Bazaar, Khetwady, Girgaum, New Foras Road, Cammateepora, Oomercarry, Bhendy Bazaar Road, Grant Road and the Northbrook Gardens. Khetwadi and portions of Girgaum and Grant Roads are among the low-lying portions of the city, so the roads there are very soon flooded. On Saturday morning knee-deep water was collected near the Churney Road station. The street of that name was also flooded, the compound of the Albless Baugh, where marriage festivities among Parsees are celebrated, was one lake. In Khetwadi, near Cama Baugh, another charitable institution of the Parsees designed for a similar purpose, the water remained for some hours. In some of the lanes in Khetwadi it was up to the waist, and men and beasts were put to great difficulty in wading through it. The drainage there during the last three or four years has been so far improved as to receive the water faster than was formerly the case. Otherwise there is no doubt the high water mark recorded there in the present case would have exceeded by a foot or two. All about Null Bazaar people had to make the best of their way through a vast pool. The Lime Kiln Lane and portions of Girgaum Back Road were also flooded more or less. Small lanes in low-lying districts suffered most. There the water remained for hours, the means of outlet being particularly insufficient. On Sunday morning Albless and Cama Baughs and the lanes of Khetwadi were again flooded. In some places the water was 4 feet deep. The Alfred Road all along presented a succession of pools. A few palm trees are reported to have fallen in the Girgaum district, but beyond this and similar damage to property, only one accident is reported, that (reported elsewhere) in which a little native boy being carried away by the rush of water was drowned in a gully.

From 6 p.m. on Friday, the rainfall in the Fort was 7 inches 73 cents, making a total rainfall of 89 inches as against 94 inches up to the corresponding date last year. The amount of rainfall to 6 last evening brought the total to 91 inches 38 cent. as against 94 inches 32 cents. last year. The storm, it appears, travelled gradually up the Coast and has now begun to prevail in the Deccan and up-country districts.

CRICKET AT AHMEDABAD.

(FROM A CASUAL CORRESPONDENT.)

AHMEDABAD, SEPT. 9.

A CRICKET match was played here to-day, between the Right and Left Half Batteries A.-2 R. A., resulting in a win for the latter, by 1 innings and 88 runs. The weather was rather warm for play, and the ground bad; another thing, one of the Right Half players (after the 1st innings) lost his temper and left the ground, this, with Corporal Peck (who is a good Cricketer) being sick, left the Right Half Battery rather weak. The scores are as under:—

By way of diversion, says the Murree correspondent of the Lahore paper, a party of ladies and gentlemen are amusing themselves by going through a set of quadrilles on horseback, on the Depot cricket ground. The writer then says:—"One noticed them for a few evenings at practice without music, but this evening (Saturday, the 3rd) there they go round to the strains of the Carabiniers' band. Ladies and gentlemen, 16 in all, mounted on a set of wretched tats—typical grass-cutters' tats—nearly every one of them went round, in and out, 'ladies chains,' and all the rest of it, for the space of an hour, and without once changing their mounts."

THE POONA RACES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, SEPT. 10.

THE proverbial Poona rain again attended the races to-day, though it was not so heavy as on Thursday. All day the rain came down in torrents, and it was feared that the races would have to be postponed, but just an hour before the time fixed for the first event there was a slight break and the races came off after all, though the course was in a fearful condition and "going" very heavy. In comparison with the first day and the decisions of the different events to-day's proceedings seemed very tame and altogether lacked sport. There were six items on the card again, but none of them produced any good finishes, the winners were either "morals" or rank outsiders. In only two cases did the favourite come to the post—that was Eclipse in the first race and Diglah in "The Maiden Galloways," while in the others strangers carried all before them. Such being the results the proceeding wanted the charm of good racing and exciting endings. The bookmakers, of course, had no reason to complain with things in this state, and during the evening many a bet was upset. There is one thing which I fancy if remedied would give more satisfaction another day, and that is the fault of serving up the best races at the end when it gets quite dark and all lose their interest in what is going on. For instance, such an event as "The Welter," or "The Ghorpoori Stakes," might easily have given way to the "Pony Derby" which was, next to "The Governor's Cup," the most important item. Still we cannot have everything perfect, though the Stewards might let us have a treat if it were only to compensate for the nasty weather. I was glad to see there was betting for place in "The Governor's Cup," and thought if this was done in the other two events the public would have appreciated the concession very much in the shape of a valuable return.

"The Welter" was the first race and Eclipse was considered a moral for it. As he always does he ran as good as was expected and simply walked away from his companions. He is a grand animal and I am afraid will not meet his match this year, at least at this meeting. Amos, capitally ridden by Brewty in his old style, pulled off "The Ghorpoori Stakes," snatching it from Signal, who was popularly credited with it. This was the first surprise, and if Signal or any of the others had only made a fight for it it would have been worth seeing, for unless you have laid heavy metal on him, it is the most insipid thing to see an outsider flying yards a head of the field. It was a pleasure to find that the Aga's horse Burnett won "The Aga Khan's Purse." The horse was not taken much into account generally and so he may also be considered an outsider, as the favourite with the public and the bookmakers was Namdar on whom was level money. He however was nowhere in the thing, the winner carreering in front the whole way. A good field of ten came to the post for "The Maiden Galloway" and Diglah won as expected, doing it in a canter. A fine horse is Diglah, trained by the jockey who steered him home so well. Mintmaster had also many fanciers, but those who knew the grey's form, though he did not shine in "The Derby" on Thursday, considered it a moral for him. "The Governor's Cup" fell to Little Wonder, to the no little consternation of every one. The event was to be Silvermane's by general opinion, and by no one more so than by his sporting owner, who, I believed, has lost a good thousand or two on him. The dread name of Silvermane I learnt kept other entries out, and the fact will account for the small field, so that the defeat was a pleasure to many others besides the bookmakers. How it was that popular fancy attached itself to Silvermane I don't know, as subsequent events proved Samnite, his stable companion, possessed much better form. Little Wonder has been trained, I believe, by Wheal, who can now look with no small pride on the outcome of his care. The news that his little protege had pulled off the event of the day must have been very cheering to him, as he required some such thing to solace him, for early in the evening Wheal met with a serious accident, having been knocked down and run over by a carriage, as he was making his way to the Grand Stand. There is a possibility that the favourite, who ran a perfect wretch this evening, might yet do something to regain the reputation he has lost. There is such a glorious uncertainty in racing, and it may be that a heavy course is not one on which he can do anything. The last surprise occurred in "The Derby," when Kingsley again guided by Wool, secured the judge's verdict from a field of nine. Mirror and Young Chorister, of the Confederacy, were backed to win, and the result was most unexpected.

I forgot to mention that H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, attended by Colonel Beecher and Captain Metcalfe, was present the whole evening, and Lord and Lady Reay, attended by Capt. Hamilton, a portion of the time, having just arrived as the field were started for his Excellency's Cup. By the way it would be some very good management if the Stewards placed a sensible lot of men to pass those who wear the blue badge—their own—and ticket holders, as I saw one had the presumption to stop and demand a ticket from his Royal Highness as he entered the ring. The Duke, who took it very good humouredly, pointed to his badge. He is a patron, but the diligent gatekeeper, who was a European too, asked for a ticket and then, probable fancying his Roy

Amos steered by Brewty forged ahead, passing Timotheus, who made a game fight for the judge's verdict. Amos however secured that by two lengths, Signal making a poor third. The latter was put up and bought in at 2020. Time —1min. 23⅕secs.

Betting (approx.) 3 to 2 against Raby even, and 2 to 1 against Namdar, 6 to 1 against Burnett and 3 to 2 against Nadar Shah.

Making the most of a good start Burnett jumped off ahead at once, scampering away improving the lead by by half a dozen lengths when the hill was reached, Raby here lessened the distance between himself and the leader. Namdar seemed to be out it of altogether falling back descending the hill, where all the horses tailed off with Burnett still at the head, Raby being second and Nadir Shah behind him. This order was maintained till the bend when, coming up the straight Burnett simply walked away from his companions. Three lengths separated Nadir Shah and Roby who was a bad second. Time 3-17 secs. lat. 1½ mile 3-11 secs.

4TH RACE.—"The Maiden Galloway"—Rs. 500 from the Fund. For all Maiden Arabs and C. B. Galloways. Weight for age and inches. Galloways landed after the 1st September 1886 allowed 4 lbs. After one or two break aways the field went off together. Deerfoot then went ahead with Diglah, Torquoise, and Mintmaster close at his heels. On reaching the hill Diglah improved his position and coming on terms with Deerfoot past him and from thence maintained the lead which he increased as home got nearer. Up the straight Taylor walked away from the winning by 5 lengths. Turquoise was a bad second and Goldfinch a fair third.

5TH RACE.—"The Governor's Cup"—Value Rs. 1,000, psesented by H. E. the Governor of Bombay. A Handicap for all Arabs and Bombay Presidency country breds. Betting: 2 to 1 Silvermane, 20 to 1 Little Wonder, 8 to 1 Tynedale, 3 to 1 Monk, 10 to 1 Samnite.

After one or two breakaways a good start was effected. Little Wonder took up the running and lead as the field past the stand the first time. Torquoise came a length behind with Samnite and Silvermane some distance behind. The leader retained his position at the head of affairs and Tynedale improved his position and Samnite in close attendance. This was the position the remainder of the journey till the turn for home, when Little Wonder was closely pressed by Tynedale up the straight, but the latter lost the judge's verdict by half a length, and three lengths separated him from Samnite. Time 3min. 18sec.

Bettiug: 4 and 2 to 1 Kingsley, even and, 3 to 2 against Mirror, 2 to 1 young Chorister 4 to 1 Tenasserim, 5 to 1 Commotion, 5 to 1 Bulbul and the rest of the field.

Owing to Shyda becoming very fractions and disorderly, rearing and kicking and refusing to join the others, several attempts to get a start failed. Then when Shyda became manageable Mirror began to play the same game. Thi spoilt further attempts at stating, and this added to several of the others becoming restive and breaking away so that Mr. Beatty had a rare business in commencing the race. After the field had advanced to the post and retired about thirteen times they were eventually sent well away, Suspense and Shyda making the running with Tenasserim and Commotion next and Kingsley at their heels. After a short while Tenasserim took the lead and maintained it till the bend was reached. Mirror was jammed in in the group behind those mentioned and near the straight improved his position a bit. In the straight however Kingsley guided by Wool forged ahead and fought hard and successfully with Tenasserim for the first place, which be won by half a length. Tenasserim had made a good fight of it and was a capital second, Commotion being a fair third and the favourite, Mirror an indifferent fourth, Time, 1-29 secs.

STRANGE MEDICINES.

THE attention that has lately been drawn in Bombay to the methods of some of the native medical practitioners, and to such peculiarities of the Indian Pharmacopœia as were revealed in a recent inquest on a man who had died after having had a paste composed of dried been administered to him by a quack, gives interest to an article on Strange Medicines lately contributed to the Nineteenth Century by Miss Gordon Cumming. It will be seen that Indian practitioners are by no means alone in including the dust of dead animals in their Materia Medica. Miss Cumming begins by telling us what she saw in a doctor's shop in Japan:—

The quaint old man whose loyal adherence to the customs of his ancestors afforded me such an interesting illustration both of old Japan and old Britain was a seller of curoyakie, i.e., carbonised animals, in other words animals reduced to charcoal, and potted in small covered jars of earthenware, to be sold as medicine for the sick and suffering. Formerly all these animals were kept alive in the back premises, and customers selected the creature for themselves, and stood by to see it killed and burnt on the spot, so that there could be no deception, and no doubt as to the freshness of their charred medicine. Doubtless some insensible foreign influence may account for the the disappearance of the menageie of waiting victims and their cremation-ground; now the zoological backyard has vanished, and only the strange chemists shop remains, like a well stored museum, wherein are ranged portions of the dried carcases of dogs and deer, foxes and badgers, rats and mice, toads and frogs, tigers and elephants.

Unfortunately for the little lizards which dart about so joyously in the sunlight, they too are classed among the popular remedies, being considered as efficacious vermifuge; so strings of their ghastly little corpses are hung in festoons in many village shops, where I have often looked wonderingly at them, marvelling in what broth of abominable things they might reappear. So lizards and dried scorpions, (imported as medicine) also found a place in this strange druggist's shop—an 'interior' so wholly unlike anything I have every seen elsewhere, that the recollection of it remains vividly stamped on my memory—the multitude of earthenware jars containing the calcined animals all neatly ranged on shelves, the general litter of oddities of various sorts strongly resembling an old curiosity shop, and, in the midst of all, the eccentric old man, who might have passed for a Japanese wizard rather than a grave physician. It was a strangely vivid illustration of what must have been the general appearance of the laboratory of the learned leeches of Britain in the days of our forefathers.

Before glancing at these, however, it may be interesting to note a few details of kindred medicine-lore in China, on which subject a member of the French Catholic Mission writing from Mongolia says: 'May Heaven preserve us from falling ill here! It is impossible to conceive who can have devised remedies so horrible as those in use in the Chinese pharmacopœia; such as drugs compounded of toads' paws, wolves' eyes, vultures' claws, human skin and fat, and other medicaments still more horrible, of which I spare you the recital. Never did witch's den contain a collection of similar horrors.'

With regard to the singular virtues supposed to attach to the medicinal use of tiger, General Robert Warden tells me that on one occasion when, in India, he was exhibiting some trophies of the chase, some Chinamen who were present became much excited at the sight of an unusually fine tiger skin. They eagerly inquired whether it would be possible to find the place where the carcase had been buried, because from the bones of tigers dug up three months after burial, a decoction may be prepared which gives immense muscular power to the fortunate man who swallows it!

I am indebted to the same informant for an interesting note on the medicine folk-lore of India, namely, that while camping in the jungle, one of his men came to entreat him to shoot a nightjar for his benefit, because from the bright prominent eyes of this bird of night an ointment is prepared which gives great clearness of vision, and is therefore highly prized.

Of the firm belief of the Chinese in the efficacy of medicines compounded of the eyes and vitals of the human body we have had too terrible proof; for it is well known that one cause which led to the appalling Tientsin massacre in 1870 was the widespread rumour that the foreign doctors (whose skill all were forced to admit) obtained their medicines by kidnapping and murdering Chinese children and tearing out their hearts and eyes. As this nice prescription is actually described in their own books as a potent medicine, the story obtained ready credence, and we all remember the result. Moreover, the same accusation has repeatedly been spread on other occasions of popular excitement against foreign teachers.

I am not certain whether the Lamas of Peking have there introduced the fashion of administering medicine from a drinking-cup fashioned from the upper part of a wise man's skull; but such medicine-cups are greatly esteemed in Thibet, where they are mounted in gold, silver, or copper.

Such details as all these are apt to sound to us strangely unreal as we read them somewhat in the light of travellers' tales, with reference to far-away lands; but it certainly is startling when, for the first time, we realise how exactly descriptive they are of the medicine-lore of our own ancestors—in truth, to this day we may find among ourselves some survivals of the old superstitions still lingering in out-of-the-way corners. Thus it is only a few years since the skull of a suicide was used in Caithness as a drinking-cup for the cure of epilepsy. Dr. Arthur Mitchell knows of a case in which the body of such a one was disinterred in order to obtain her skull for this purpose.

It was, however, accounted a more sure specific for epilepsy to reduce part of the skull to powder and swallow it. Even the moss which grew on such skulls was deemed a certain cure for various diseases. Nor was this simply a popular superstition. In the official Pharmacopœia of the College of Physicians of London. A.D. 1678, the skull of a man who has died a violent death, and the horn of a unicorn, appear as highly approved medicines. Again in 1721, the same Pharmacopœia mentions unicorn's horn, human fat, and human skulls, dog's dung, toads, vipers, and worms, among the really valuable medical stores. The Pharmacopœia was revised in 1742, and various ingredients were rejected, but centipedes, vipers, and lizards were retained.

Nor were these strange compounds prepared for human subjects only. In the Anger's Vade Mecum, published in 1631, anglers are recommended to use an ointment for the luring of fish. Consisting, amongst other horrible ingredients, of man's fat, cat's fat, heron's fat, asafœtida, finely powdered mummy, camphor, oil of lavender, &c.; and it was added that man's fat could be obtained from the London chyrurgeons concerned in anatomy.

Of ordinary skulls, multitude are known to have been exported from Ireland to Germany for the manufacture of a famous ointment. But as regards the more precious skull of the sinner who has died by his own hand, some faith in its efficacy seems still to linger in various parts of Britain. The Rev. T. F. Thistleton Dwyer quotes an instance of it in England in 1858; and some years later, a collier's wife applied to these sexton at Ruabon in Wales for a ragment of a humane skull, which she purposed grating into a fine powder, to be mixed with other ingredients as a medicine for her daughter, who suffered from the Scotland likewise furnishes a recent instance of the same strange faith, which about thirty years ago happened to come under the notice of Sir James Simpson, in the parish of Nigg in Ross-shire, where a lad having been attacked with epilepsy which his friends vainly sought to cure by the charm of mole's blood (the blood of a live mole being allowed to drip on his head), they actually sent a messenger nearly a hundred miles to procure a bit of the skull of a suicide. This treasure was scraped to dust and mixed with a cup of water, which the boy, ignorant of its contents, was made to drink! (An equally odd cure for consumption was, not long ago, fully believed in the adjoining country of Sutherland, where the patient was made to drink warm blood drawn from his own arm. An instance of this was related to Sir James Simpson by one of the parties concerned. Dr. Mitchell has seen several epileptic idiots who had been subjected to the same treatment.

Equally precious to the leech of the last century were the ashes of a burnt witch collected from her funeral pyre. Such were deemed a certain cure for gout or for fever, and eagerly were they gathered up and treasured.

Whatever may have been the special merit thus attaching to crimnals (and we know that a strand from the rope with which a man had been hanged was long accounted an amulet against many ills), it is satisfactory to know that saints have had their share in this dubious honour. There is one sect of our fellow Christians in Syria, namely, the Nestorians who, while they eschew all veneration for relics, yet believe the remains of saints and martyrs to be endowed with such supernatural virtues, that at their wedding feasts the dust of some reputed saint is invariably mixed with the wine in the marriage cup—a custom which would seem to require numerous additions to their saintly calendar. Doubtless, however, the holy dust multiplies, that the supply may be equal to the demand.

Old Sir Thomas Browne, after enumerating the various diseases for which divers great doctors recommend mummy as an infallible remedy, protests against such unworthy use of the ancient heroes, and declares that to serve up Chamnes and Amosis in electuaries and pills, or that Cheops and Psammetichus should be weighed out as drugs, is dismal vampirism, more horrible than the feasts of the Ghoules.

The apothecaries of England were often well content to make use of a cheap substitute which answered quite as well, namely, the bones of ancient Britons. Dr. Toope of Oxford, writing in 1685, tells how, at the circles of Hakpen Hill in Wiltshire, he had discovered a rare lot of human bones—skeletons, arranged in circles with the feet towards the centre. He says: 'The bones were large and nearly rotton, but the teeth extream and wonderfully white. Undisturbed by any questions of reverence for those ancestors of his race, he adds: 'I dug up many bushells with which I made a noble medicine.'

A very interesting point of similarity between the little shop of the old Japanese apothecary and those of early English druggists is suggested by the extensive use of calcined animal matter recommended in the prescriptions which were most highly valued in England before the Norman Conquest, and which are recorded in elaborate Saxon manuscripts, carefully preserved in our national archives. These 'leechdoms' are written in ancient black-letter characters, and are curiously illustrated with pictures of the herbs and animals which are recommended for medicinal use.

To the value of every portion of a fox not even the fairy lore of Japan can bear higher testimony. The man who has disease of the joints is advised to take a living fox, and seethe him till the bones alone be left, and then bathe repeatedly in this foxy essence. And every year he shall prepare himself this support, and let him add oil thereto, when he seetheth him. Wonderfully it healeth.

Next in value to the fox ranks the hare, whose brain drunk in wine 'wonderfully amendeth' an indolent tendency to over-sleep. Its lung, bound on the sore, healeth both eyes and feet. The hare's gall mingled with honey brighteneth the eyes. The lung and liver mingled with myrrh and boiled in vinegar cures giddiness. The sinews swallowed raw are an antidote against bite of spiders; and the rennet administered in wine, against that of serpents. The heart mingled with dust of frankincense heals various forms of disease, while baldness is averted by smearing the head with oil in which have been seethed portions of this poor little animal. 'Then the hair holdeth on, and the salve compels that it shall grow.'

Next in order of merit comes the he-goat, whose liver pounded with vinegar is found valuable as a styptic, as is also his blood dried and reduced to dust; goats gall is a cosmetic which will remove all unsightly spots and specks from off the face; mingled with apple-juice it heals diseases of the ear, or with oil is a remedy for toothache. If a child be epileptic 'draw the brain of a mountain goat through a golden ring; give it to the child to swallow before it tastes milk; it will be healed.' 'To get sleep, a goat's horn laid under the head turneth waking into sleep.' A goat's horn roasted and pounded with acid reduces the inflammation of erysipelas. Goat's grease and blood mingled with barley meal forms a soothing poltice, while pills of goat's grease and a draught of its blood are recommended for dropsy.

Many and indescribably disgusting are the other remedies derived from the goat. A Brahmin reverentially swallowing a little of each product of the sacred cow would shrink with loathing from the leechdoms of the early English, so important a place do they assign to preparation of the excrement of divers animals, but chiefly of bulls, of swine, of dogs, and of goats. These and many other foul ingredients are compounded in every conceivable manner, and prescribed not merely for medicinal baths and plasters for external use, but as most unsavoury physic for the inner man.

CIVIL HOSPITAL ASSISTANTS TAKEN FOR TEMPORARY MILITARY SERVICE.—On the representation of the Surgeon General with the Government of Bombay it has been decided by the Government of India that when Civil Hospital Assistants are taken for temporary Military Service they should receive the military instead of the Civil rate of pay attached to their grade i. e. that they should get temporary rank and pay accordingly for the time they are serving in the military line according to their length of service as if they had been in that line during the whole of their service. It should, however, clearly be understood that such hospital assistants on returning to civil duties must revert to the precise footing in the civil department as regards grade and pay which they would hold if they had not been transferred to temporary duty in the Military Department.—Mail.

HYDERABAD RAJAHS SHEORAJ BAHADOOR.—A correspondent sends us the following, which we publish exactly as it was received;—"We are glad to hear that Rajah Sheoraj Bahadoor has appointed six scholarships in his school called 'Malwala Potshala' where English and Persian is taught, in celebration of the Jubilee. This looks quite strange to see how subjects and nobles of the native States are jolly to perform such grand things. And we have also been informed that Rajah Murli Manoher Bahadoor has performed the Jubilee, when in India in English Dominion (Bombay) where he has lighted his place, opposite to Byculla Club, with thousands of lights in the night and in the morning he has given charity such as lame and blind beggars, &c., who was invited in H. E. the Lord Reay's Ball. When this Jubilee was performed in London this Rajah has given grand dinner with illumination, etc., at his Residence in Hyderabad called 'Malwala Palace' and also he made a long and beautiful speech. We no perfectly well that this is the result of the high education and good society what this Rajah Saheb has received and besides this these Rajahs belong to a very ancient noble family of the state whose ancestors have received good reward of Jagirs and manaal for their devotion."—Ibid.

THE COURT-MARTIAL ON SUB-CONDUCTOR JAMES BALFOUR.—This Warrant Officer of the Ordnance Department, attached to the Arsenal in Fort St. George, was arraigned by a General Court-Martial, last week, on a charge of theft of a quantity of pig lead, the property of Government. According to the prosecution, on the 22nd June last, a native contractor applied to Colonel Fisher for permission to purchase a quantity

THE SPORTING CASE AT MEERUT.

THE decision was verbally given on September 5 in the case of Chapman versus Tej Singh, the Judge holding generally that the Court had jurisdiction on certain matters, while on others, such as the jewellery obtained from Chapman at Jodhpore, he was doubtful.

Mr. Newton urged that the object of the law was to minimise rather than increase litigation and if the Court, before inquiring into the cognizable parts of Chapman's demand, decided in such a general manner, an unsatisfactory result would necessarily accrue.

Mr. Peary Lall urged the dismissal of the claim altogether, but the Court ruled that there was a cause established, and suggested that Mr. Newton should amend the plaint so as to enable the court to adjudicate on such portions of the claim over which it has jurisdiction.

TRANS-FRONTIER INTELLIGENCE.

THE Lahore paper publishes the following items of trans-frontier intelligence :—

A native correspondent writes from Swat that the inhabitants there believe that all the arms in possession of Omra Khan of Junddul are sent to him by the British Government through Abdul Latiff of Hazara.

Mulla Khalil, who was sent by the Amir to overcome Omra Khan and settle the affairs of Bajaur and Swat, has, according to the same correspondent, been put to flight. On the 22nd of August, Omra Khan killed 60 men and 52 horses of the Mehmand Karez and Kuth Sarai tribes, who came to assist Mulla Khalil. Omra Khan lost 6 men and 9 horses.

On the 23 August Omra Khan made an attack on the villages of Ochoona and plundered 7 villages. The Governor of Jelalabad is said to have seized 4 men (Ghilzais) of Logar as they were heard to say in the bazar of Jelaladad that Abdul Karim was on the eve of advancing and that he had twice defeated Gholam Hyder Khan during the month. When they arrived as prisoners at Kabul, the Amir is said to have sent them to Turkistan for sale as slaves.

On the 28th of August, four women were rescued from sale in Khost by the Amir and sent back to Bajaur across the Khyber Pass, and their travelling expenses were also paid by the Amir.

Early in August, Rahman Kul Begi, the Governor of Karaigin, Abdul Moman of Mir Darwaz, and Rahman Khan of Golab wrote to Sirdar Abdulla Jan, Governor of Faizabad in Badakhshan, asking him to keep the Russians as much as he could out of the limits of Badakhshan, as they desired to ruin the country. First they cunningly adopt mild measures, and when they once get the inhabitants under their power they behave brutally and tyranically.

Wherever the Russian camp is pitched one mile over the boundary, a picket is formed, and any female found within the precincts of the camp is ill-used and dishonored by them, as happened lately, to the knowledge of the writers, to a woman of Golab. This, they say, is an instance of the way in which the inhabitants are treated by the Russians.

Nulla Gholab Din of Fort Bunnoo, who in the winter lives at Bunnoo and in the summer in the Sawul Hills, and who is a disciple of the Mulla of Supra, has made peace between the Ahmedzais, and Waziris.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE
THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, to J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London, Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is A DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. age Wood states that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.
Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
CAUTION.—Beware of Piracy and limitation.

Dr. LAZARUS'S
SPLEEN PILLS
Have cured thousands of cases of enlarged Spleen.
Full directions given in wrapper.
PREPARED (ONLY) BY
E. J. LAZARUS & Co.
MEDICAL HALL, BENARES.
In bottles at Re 1-4 each. Box and packing 2 as.

From MR. E. KIRBY, Dinapore.—"I have always had in mind your wonderful cure of my daughter's illness of the Spleen—She was, as is well known by many given up as incurable—her complaint being chronic :—When you took her in hand I really had no hopes that she would ever have recovered :—I write this thanking you for restoring her,—I have great confidence in your Spleen Pills and the Essence of Chiretta which I recommend to all as a specific for the diseases for which they are given. You have my permission to give publicity to the above for the good of the public."

Mr. Apothecary W. J. Montgomery, Madras Medl. Estabt., writes.—"You are at liberty to publish the following few lines which bear Testimony to the efficacy of your Spleen Pills in the "Pioneer" if you think fit. I have used Dr. Lazarus's Spleen Pills in several cases of enlarged Spleen, &c., in all of them the cure was decidedly rapid, though the dose recommended has been found by me too strong for some. I have used nothing equal to it, and would strongly recommend those suffering from the above complaint never to be without taking a course of these pills, and I am quite certain, that these pills will effect a cure when other remedies have failed." Jalna, Deccan, 24-8-82.

From J. T. Murray, Esquire, Engineer, I. V. S. R. Flotilla, Sukkur, 11-10-83.—The vial of Dr. Lazarus's Spleen pills I purchased of you last month I am happy to say has made a thorough cure of my daughter's 13 years of age's enlarged Spleen. I recommend the Pills to all, young and old, who may be suffering with their Spleen. I have no objection to your making this known to the public."
